Client Notification: SolarWinds Cybersecurity Attack

There was extensive media coverage last week about a cybersecurity attack on an IT security firm named SolarWinds. Though the story is developing, reports indicate that many government agencies and corporations were impacted by this action. These victims were either direct clients or indirect end customers of SolarWinds security software, and the likely impact is a security breach that could steal or damage sensitive data.

We realize that many of you may inquire of your vendors regarding their potential exposure to this problem. MainStreet does not use the affected vendor in any capacity and there is no known risk posed to MainStreet either directly or indirectly (such as by service providers) as the result of this global incident.

As always, we deeply value the integrity of our relationship with you. Feel free to reach out to us if you would like to discuss this matter further.
